Changing Nature of Foreign-Policy Making

G. John Elkenberry, "When China Rules the World: The End of the Western World and the Birth of a New Global Order", Foreign Affairs, November/December 2009, pp. 152-253. This is written as a review of a book with the same title as the article, by Martin Jacques (Penguin Press, 2009), in which Jacques argues that China's inevitable impact on the world will be at least as great as that of the United States over the last century. Ikenberry takes issue with some of Jacques' points. This review is available online only with a subscription, though some articles in the issue are free.

Richard Ned Lebow, A Cultural Theory of International Relations, Cambridge University Press, 2009. The book represents an extension of ancient Greek thought that social order is established around a few core impulses such as "spirit, appetite and reason", with applications to specific time periods.
